Rentals Insight

Houston Rentals Insight Portal

See what Houston renters search for, who you compete with, and how your website performs, all in one place.

What this is

A private website, protected by a login, where you can follow the Houston apartment rental market and the performance of your own website without spreadsheets or emailed reports. You open the portal whenever you like and see the latest numbers.

What you will see

Overview	Visits to your website, clicks from search results, tour inquiries and your average position in search, with a simple chart.
Search demand	Which Houston neighborhoods and search terms renters use most, so you know where to focus.
Competitors	Who ranks for the searches that matter, what they do well, and where they fall short.
Next steps	A short list of practical improvements ranked by likely impact.
Reports	A history of past weekly and monthly summaries you can open or download.

You choose how often it updates

Switch between four views at any time. Each view refreshes at its own pace.

View	Best for	What refreshes
Hourly	Watching a campaign or launch day	Website traffic
Daily	Day-to-day monitoring	Traffic, clicks and search positions
Weekly	Regular check-ins and trends	Everything, with comparison to the previous period
Monthly	Planning and review meetings	Everything, plus market and competitor movement

Search positions and market data do not change hour by hour, so they update daily or weekly rather than hourly.

How it works

1. Connect	We link the portal to your Google Analytics and Google Search Console accounts. You stay the owner of both.
2. Collect	The portal gathers your website numbers automatically and combines them with market and competitor information.
3. Review	You sign in and see everything in plain language, ready for your team or your clients.

What we need from you

- Access to your Google Analytics and Google Search Console (or permission for us to set them up).
- Your website address and the neighborhoods you care about most.
- The names of a few competitors you already watch, if any.

What to expect

We want you to know exactly how reliable each number is:

Your own website	Exact. These numbers come straight from your Google accounts.
Search demand and competitors	Estimates. They come from specialist industry data providers. They are very useful for comparing and spotting trends, but they are not exact counts.
History	If your website already uses Google Analytics and Search Console, past data can be shown. Otherwise the history starts from the day we connect.

Next steps

- Review the sample portal together and note what to add or change.
- Confirm which update views and which neighborhoods matter most to you.
- Share access to your Google accounts so we can begin.

The figures in the sample portal are illustrative. Your live portal will show your real data once connected.
